7th Meeting of the Federation of the European Societies of Neuropsychology (FESN)

Milan, 5-7 September 2019

Aula Magna Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore
Dear friends and colleagues,
We look forward to welcoming you in Milan in September 2019!
The meeting of the Federation of European Societies of Neuropsychology (FESN) has become a landmark event for European neuropsychologists. The meeting offers top-level scientific and clinical updates, and a great opportunity to meet, share and start collaborations. The Federation currently unites 18 national societies. The Italian Neuropsychological Society will be hosting the 7th Scientific Conference of the FESN. Neuropsychology researchers and practitioners, as well as scientists from many of the multiple areas of neuroscience will find topics of interest in the rich and broad program, including thematic symposia, free communications, posters and exciting keynote lectures.

Milan is one of the most-visited tourist destinations in Europe, with more than 8 million visitors in 2017. There are many reasons to visit Milan: unique historical sights, classical and contemporary art, stunning new architecture, fashion and shopping, an amazing choice of excellent food, culture and nightlife, not to mention nature sites nearby (lakes, rivers and mountains). September is the perfect time to be in Milan: pleasant weather can be expected, and many opportunities to enjoy the multiple facets of a cosmopolitan city. The city is easily accessible by airplane (3 airports, many low-cost options), train or car.

The meeting venue is the Catholic University campus, in the city center, a cosmopolitan, multicultural environment set around the two main cloisters of the historic Saint Ambrose monastery designed by Bramante, serving more than 30,000 students. A range of accommodation possibilities will be available, from cheap hostels to top level luxury hotels.

We warmly invite you to join the 7th Scientific Conference of the FESN in Milan, 5-7 September 2019.

Please start to make your plans considering the following deadlines:

Symposia proposals

The proposals can be submitted by both individual members and national societies. We encourage proposals on topics that capture the imagination and interest from a wide audience and that bring together experts from different countries (including top scientists from outside of Europe). It is important to note that there is no funding available from the FESN for delegates invited to speak at a symposium. Financial support from the national societies FESN symposia is highly appreciated. Proposals can be submitted via the conference website (www.FESN2019.it). The deadline is February 28th, 2019.

Individual papers and posters

Abstracts for individual papers and posters Symposium proposals can be submitted by members of the national societies and by non-members via the conference website (www.FESN2019.it). The deadline is February 28th, 2019.
